

Are you at risk for Hepatitis A?

You are more likely to become infected if you:

- Use drugs (IV, non-IV)
- Are homeless or live in transient housing
- Are a man who has sex with men (MSM)
- Were recently incarcerated
- Have close contact with an infected person

If you're at risk, ask your doctor about the Hepatitis A vaccine.

Vaccination is the best way to prevent Hepatitis A.

States bordering Illinois and across the country are experiencing Hepatitis A outbreaks. To prevent an outbreak of Hepatitis A in Illinois, Hepatitis A vaccines are especially recommended for those at greatest risk of infection. For more information, visit www.cookcountypublichealth.org.
